Raptivity to exhibit at DevLearn 2016 Conference & Expo, Las Vegas

Join Raptivity at booth #242 at DevLearn 2016, for a quick demonstration of its interactivity building solutions

Team Raptivity team will participate in the prestigious DevLearn 2016 Conference & Expo, at MGM Grand, Las Vegas, Nevada, from November 16 - 18. The team, stationed at booth #242, plans on showcasing its flagship interactivity building tool – Raptivity, along with its entire array of interactivity support solutions.

DevLearn Conference & Expo is North America's largest eLearning event, attracting a highly experienced and technical audience of senior learning professionals. Since creativity can often make the difference between cookie-cutter eLearning and unique and beneficial learning programs, this year the conference is themed around creativity. DevLearn 2016 will inspire attendees to tap into their creative side and take advantage of what technology makes possible for learning today and tomorrow. To know more about DevLearn, click here.

"It has been a long association for Raptivity with DevLearn. Year on year, we participate in this conference and the excitement keeps building up. This year too, team Raptivity is really excited for the conference. We plan to be there with our flagship products – Raptivity and Raptivity Linker, along with the latest addition to our bucket, Raptivity for Mac. A host of new services that we have launched recently, will also be showcased. We are expecting a good footfall and I look forward to interacting with the audience", says Janhavi Padture, Vice President, Strategy and Innovation, Harbinger Knowledge Products.
