Raptivity Wins Software Satisfaction Awards 2008

Raptivity software by Harbinger Knowledge Products has won Software Satisfaction Awards 2008 in Learning Software category. These awards are organized by UK-based Sift Media, a leading B2B publisher specializing in interactive business communities with a membership of over 250,000 professionals.

According to Sift Media, the awards are established to reward high standards from software application providers serving UK businesses. The Awards are based on the views of genuine buyers and end-users of business software applications - not those of a judging panel. This means that the Awards act as a valuable guide to any business taking the decision to purchase new software applications.

"We are delighted to be the recipient of this prestigious award, and I'm sure our software users in UK and elsewhere will be too," said Vikas Joshi, Chairman and Managing Director of Harbinger Group. "With over 250,000 members worldwide, Sift Media's endorsement of user satisfaction with Raptivity is valuable to us. We trust this recognition will encourage training and eLearning practitioners to adopt Raptivity as their software of choice."

Raptivity allows users to create true learning outcomes with meaningful interactivity. The Raptivity library of games, simulations, 3D objects, virtual world interactions, videos and 200+ such pre-built interactions is based on best practices in instructional design. The content published by Raptivity is a single flash file so it fits right into hundreds of eLearning tools and can be used anywhere.

Raptivity was recently voted number one in time to proficiency and complex practice and assessment interaction building, according to a global survey by eLearning Guild. Another Guild survey also voted Raptivity number one in ease of use and integration with e-Learning tools.
